Is Video Art Dead?

— New Formats and New Practises?

Thursday 25 May 2017

Share

The meeting aims to discuss the validity of video art as a way of experimentation and reflection more than 50 years after its birth. In this sense: has video art lost interest? Is it still a form of experimentation? Is it still a thoughtful and a critical tool to think about contemporary society? Or will it be replaced by other kinds of technologies?
